

* The lower line shows how the world record would progress if short-term trends continue. The upper line shows how it could progress if two hours is the limit of human performance.

Sources: International Association of Athletics Federations, Association of Road Racing Statisticians